

Thank you for attending the breast assessment clinic.

This leaflet is designed to answer some questions you may have about this stage in the breast screening process.

Why was I asked to attend for assessment?

One in every 20 women screened is invited to the breast assessment clinic for additional tests. Something was noticed on your mammogram (breast x-ray) which required further investigation. The doctor you have seen at the breast assessment clinic will have explained in more detail why you were invited to attend.

What was the outcome of my assessment?

All the tests that have been carried out are satisfactory.

What happens next?

You will continue to receive an invitation for breast screening every 3 years. If you are over 70 you will not automatically be invited for screening, but are encouraged to make your own appointment by contacting your local screening centre (see details overleaf).

What should I do between now and my next appointment?

It is important to check your breasts regularly so that you are aware of any change that may occur. Please read the leaflet Breast awareness: looking out for changes.

What can I do if I notice any change in my breasts?

Please see your GP without delay. He or she may wish to refer you to a breast clinic. If you have any further questions, please contact your breast care nurse:
